

CRISIS RESPONSE PLAN 2023

The deteriorating humanitarian situation in recent years has led to increased needs across Ethiopia, with over 20 million people – internally displaced persons (IDPs), returning IDPs, crisis-affected communities, returning migrants, and their home communities among them – needing assistance and protection in 2023. Nearly 3 million IDPs have been identified in Ethiopia in 2022, with displacement risks remaining high in 2023 and beyond. Conflict in the northern parts of the country, violence in many other parts, and natural hazards such as one of the worst droughts in recent decades, frequent floods, and landslides are the main drivers of displacement and needs. High displacement and damage to infrastructure and basic services have exposed the population to major protection risks. Alongside immediate humanitarian assistance, transition and recovery efforts are needed for affected communities to be able to recover. Ethiopia is also an important departure, transit and destination country for mixed migration flows in the Horn of Africa. An alarming number of migrants are returning to Ethiopia destitute and require assistance. With large influx of refugees into Ethiopia from neighbouring countries, need for safe and secure transportation of refugees to designated sites will also remain high throughout 2023.
